

Abstract Guideline

Call for Abstracts

We would like to invite individuals (graduate students, residents/fellows, junior and senior investigators) to submit abstracts (original investigation or case reports) for the 1st Joint Conference on Medical Science and Technology 2018 (JCMST 2018). Any investigations/case reports, in any form, previously published are not eligible. Relevant, unpublished abstracts previously presented at other conferences are eligible to submit.

Conference topics:

- Medical Science and Technology
- Clinical Medicine
- Innovation in Medicine
- Other medical areas

The Abstract committee will select abstracts for oral presentations.

The accepted abstract will be published in a book of abstracts. The presenting authors are required to register for the conference, and to present during the scheduled oral sessions. An abstract without a registered presenter will be withdrawn.

Information about Ao Nang

Ao Nang (sometimes known as "Ao Phra Nang", a name the Tourist Authority of Thailand devised some years back, but which never really caught on) is the most "westernized" beach in Krabi. Originally a backpacker hotspot, it is now moving rapidly towards the package tourist crowd, as the airport brings in more charter flights with each season. While not quite as scenic as Rai Leh, there is a good range of accommodation, many good restaurants, easy transport and travel/tour agencies ready to cater to your every whim, making it a good base for exploring Krabi.

One choice of accommodation is the conference venue, Aonang Villa Resort (www.aonangvilla.com). However, there are plenty of hotels in Aonang. You can select from many other choices, from travel fare aggregator websites such as Agoda (www.agoda.com/Ao_Nang/hotels), Traveloka (www.traveloka.com/hotel/Krabi), www.hotels.com and www.booking.com
